Bus industry thanks Stirling Hinchliffe for sterling work

The Queensland Bus Industry Council (QBIC) has acknowledged the effort and commitment by outgoing Minister for Transport and the Commonwealth Games, Stirling Hinchliffe, for working collaboratively with the bus and coach industry to deliver negotiated bus service contracts.

QBIC Executive Director David Tape said Mr Hinchliffe was delivering on the Palaszczuk Government's commitment to return to negotiated bus service contracts in Queensland - contracts that are value for money and sustainable for all parties aligned with the contracts.

"On behalf of our industry I express my appreciation and thanks to Mr Hinchliffe for his efforts and integrity while serving as Minister and wish him well for the future," said Mr Tape.

He said the industry looked forward to a continued partnership with the acting and incoming Ministers to create an innovative and sustainable integrated passenger transport network for Queenslanders.
