Bus industry thanks Trad, welcomes new minister

The peak body representing the state's bus and coach operators has welcomed the appointment of new transport and main roads minister Mark Bailey while also recognising the work of outgoing minister Jackie Trad.

David Tape, executive director of the Queensland Bus Industry Council (QBIC), said that Ms Trad worked well with the industry, despite her workload as Deputy Premier and responsibility for other portfolios.

"We thank her for working with industry in a collaborative manner to achieve good passenger transport outcomes, and we wish her the best in her new role in the re-elected Palaszczuk Government," he said.

Mr Tape said the move to once again combine the transport and main roads portfolios for incoming minister Mark Bailey, was a positive step.

"QBIC looks forward to working with him to continue the work we started under Jackie, and we remain focused on delivering a single integrated multimodal public transport network that is accessible to everyone."
