Statement from Queensland Bus Industry Council – Re: Moorooka bus tragedy

Today is a sad day for all within Queensland's bus industry. On behalf of bus operators we send our condolences to the family of the driver who died in such tragic circumstances. To say we are shocked that such an event could occur so unexpectedly is an understatement. We are also thinking of those passengers who witnessed this action today and wish them the best as they deal with this traumatic experience. We thank police and emergency services for their response and service and we await the outcome of the investigation in order to try and make sense of this situation.
